

WHY?

Didn't you get a notice from the bank last week that your account was overdrawn?" asked Mr. Miggles.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Miggles. "But everything is perfectly all right. I sent them a check for the amount I was overdrawn."

"Did you write them a check to be paid from your own overdrawn account?" exclaimed Mr. Miggles.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Miggles.

"Why?"

But what we want to know is, "why don't you send us a check for that $1.50 you owe us?"

(Editorial.)

OUR OPPORTUNITY.

The Federal Government offers to Garrard County about two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, or fifty-five per cent of the cost of the permanent construction of a highway diagonally across our County. The State supplements this by an offer to pay the other forty-five per cent, provided we will advance the money within the next few months and permit the State to repay it in installments not to exceed seven years. The only expense that would be to our County to have a permanent road that is estimated to last twenty years or more, without any cost whatever in repairs, would be the interest on one hundred and ninety-two thousand dollars, the whole amount of it for one year, interest on six-sevenths for two years, five-sevenths for three years, and so on until the State had paid the full amount in seven years. This would be an annual cost for seven years of about Forty-five Hundred dollars, or less, for the building of the road for us which would cost nearly half a million dollars and would last as estimated for twenty years without any further cost. It is plain to see that by voting the bonds our County tax would not be increased a single penny. In addition, the annual amount of the road fund that is spent on this road which is proposed to be constructed by State and Federal Aid, which has averaged for the past eight or ten years annually about twenty thousand dollars and which is estimated would cost to keep in repair the next ten years fifty thousand dollars a year, this amount that has been thus used in the past and would be used in the future would be diverted from this road to the other roads of the County. There can be no reason given why this bond issue should not be voted by the people at this time. Our roads are horribly in need of immediate reconstruction, and we have heard of no plan by any one opposing the bonds that would furnish us any relief. Unless there are some heroic steps taken immediately to reclaim the roads, as we observe, the highways of this County will be impassable within twelve months for any kind of modern traffic. This is our opportunity to have good roads throughout the County. With the Lexington and Richmond roads without any expense to us for twenty years and with the bond issue repaid by the State we would be enabled to reconstruct the remaining roads of the County and if not reconstruct them to keep them in fairly good repair with the annual tax at the present rate. In other words, the voting of the bonds does not raise the tax rate in Garrard County, but provides us with better roads than we have at this time without additional tax. A great many people are not advised of the purposes and plans of this bond issue and are against it on that account. We appeal to the pro-

INFLUENZA

Still Exists In City and County, But In Very Mild Form.

Of course "Doctors Do Not Know Everything", but they are often pretty good guessers. Last winter when influenza was raging so severely and taking such terrible toll, they predicted that it would recur this winter, but in much milder form. Their prediction has been fulfilled. The "flu" is present right now, right here in our town and county, lots of it, but in so mild a form as to be scarcely noticeable, and it is seldom followed by pneumonia. However, it is just as much to be dreaded as ever, and one should use every safeguard against coughs and colds, the forerunner of this dreaded disease.

"PIE SUPPER"

Proves An Enjoyable Affair.

The ladies of the local Presbyterian Church entertained the gentlemen of the congregation recently with a pie supper, something which appeals to the heart, as well as the stomach of every man. The affair was a most enjoyable one, but it is rumored that some of the gentlemen who partook of the hospitality, and who were members of the "womanless wedding" cast, and who were due to practice that night, were unable to take part in the rehearsal. They had partaken so freely of pie that they were unable to don the necessary regalia for which their part called.

gressive thoughtful citizens to get busy and inform their neighbors and urge them to cast their votes in favor of this Bond issue on March 30. It would be a calamity upon our community to refuse this gift by the State and Government of so large a sum of money when we so sorely need it to prepare these roads. It would also be a reflection upon the intelligence of our County to refuse an offer by the Federal Government and the State to build for us twenty-two miles of road at a cost of nearly a half million dollars without any cost to us when it is now necessary for us to build this same road at the County's expense, which will consume the annual tax fund of the County for the next five years and leave little, if any, money for the lateral roads of the County. The only hope for those using the lateral or outside roads is to accept this offer and let this road be built at the expense of the Federal Government and the State and use the money heretofore applied to these roads on other roads. Our readers have observed from the good letters that we have received from various tax payers from all parts of the County that the interest of the large property holders and heavy tax payers are very much in favor of the bond issue. What reason can the small tax payer give for opposing it? The bond issue would benefit those living on the outside or lateral roads as much as any other tax payers because it is his only hope for having better roads in the future. Do not treat this IMPORTANT matter with indifference, but inform yourself upon the issue and take the interest that you should take.

Discuss it with your neighbor until the 30th of March, and have him there at the polls that day and if possible see that he votes for the bond.

"THE WOMANLESS WEDDING"

A Huge Success, And Greatly Enjoyed

BY A LARGE AUDIENCE AT THE SCHOOL AUDITORIUM.

The production of the "Womanless Wedding" given by local talent at the school Auditorium on last Friday evening, was greatly enjoyed by a crowd that filled the vast Auditorium to its capacity.

To say the production was splendid does not half express it. There were no stars in the cast of characters, every one doing their part to perfection, and were we to go into details as to the perfections of the various participants, it would take more space than is allotted to the dramatic critic of the Central Record. The costumes were in many cases beautiful, and there were many "pretty women" on the stage, as well as those in the audience. The pleasure of the occasion was much enhanced by the musicians, Mrs. Harry Tomlinson at the piano and Miss Amy Dawes' violin.

Prospects For Fruit.

We have not had a fruit year for several years, and while it is yet early to predict, indications seem favorable at this time. Winter lingering in the lap of Spring holds the trees back, prevents them from budding and blooming too early, and thus reduces to a minimum the chance of the fruit being killed by late frosts and freezes.

Farming Conditions.

Farmers are very much behind with their work; there has doubtless been less Spring ploughing done than in years, in fact there has been practically no ground broken, owing to the unpropitious weather.

Very few tobacco beds have been burned as yet, while as a usual thing pretty much all the beds are sown by this time, many of them well up. Owing to an unusually light snow fall during the past winter, wheat is not at all promising; forward wheat looks fairly well under the circumstances, while late wheat is not near so promising.

Stock has wintered unusually well, and many a farmer will have a nice bunch of stuff to "turn out" with the coming of grass.

ROADS.

If your road is in such bad shape that you cannot travel over it on horse back, just cut across the hill to the following school houses and lend your services in the meetings which are to be held next week in the interest of the Bond Issue for good roads, to be voted on March 30th. Don't think because you don't travel the roads, that you don't care. Come out and see what the other fellow thinks of the Bond Issue whether you are for or against it.

Why Shouldn't We Be?

We may be accused of "forever blowing bubbles," but we honestly believe that Lancaster is destined to become one of the best towns in the best state in the Union. We are growing by leaps and bounds. Building, more in contemplation, and to contemplate means to build in Lancaster, than in many years, and there has been much building here in late years. And with all the building that has been done, there is not anything like a sufficient number of houses to accommodate the great influx of people that come, and desire to come here, to live.

The cause is obvious, first, we have the most hospitable people in the world, thrifty, energetic, wide awake, progressive, with kindly christian spirits, always ready to extend the hand of welcome to newcomers, and to make them feel at home.

And these newcomers have something to bring them here, good schools, churches, fraternal organizations, the best agricultural country in the world, work for all, and of every description, why should they not come, and where can they find better advantages, and why should our prediction be but a bubble.

HELP THE FISHING CLUB

By Observing Its Rules At The Lake.

The Lake Placid Fishing Club, the organization which has the lease of the fishing privileges at the water works lake, held its annual meeting last Thursday night and elected its officers for the year.

The Club has certain obligations to the town, which they wish to earnestly request the citizens will assist them in meeting.

They have obligated themselves to the city that there will be no wading in the lake, cooking or picnicking on the banks or scattering of trash or anything that would contaminate the water, along the banks. They most earnestly request that no children under sixteen years of age be allowed to visit the lake unaccompanied by their parents, or to enter the boats, except with their parents. The water is deep and dangerous and the Club does not wish to incur any risk by having children at the lake without their parents.

Every member of the organization pledges himself to observe these rules, and their infringement by members means their expulsion.

Persons other than members who tamper with the boats, or who violate other rules, which are but sanitary rules for the protection of the water and rules of safety for the protection of the lives of children, are trespassers and violators of the law, and will be dealt with as such.

The club has been heretofore imposed upon, both by members and outsiders, and they propose to take stringent measures if necessary, to protect their rights.

It is hard to prohibit a boy from "go in a fishin'", but if you cannot accompany him, kindly do not allow him to go to the lake, as it is not only prohibited, but is EXTREMELY DANGEROUS.

Season tickets are now ready and may be procured from the secretary, Joe Burnside, at the court house.

VOTE FOR THE BOND ISSUE.

If you are not fully informed as to the object of the proposed issue of bonds for road purposes, it is a duty you owe to yourself, and the welfare of your county to at once fully inform yourself, and when you have done this, we are satisfied that no intelligent, thinking man who is interested in having good roads, and who has the welfare of his county at heart, and desires to keep well abreast of our sister counties in the matter of good roads, as well as all other matters, will fail to vote for the proposed bond issue.

The fact that "your road" will not immediately benefit by the bond issue is no argument against the bond, for indirectly, every highway in the county will benefit thereby, not all of them immediately, as a matter of course, but eventually all will be benefitted.

The issuing of bonds is for the purpose of securing Government and State aid, which is now offered, and to obtain which the issuance of bonds is absolutely necessary. The money thus secured will, of course be for the greater part expended on the main thoroughfares traversing the county, making them first class roads, guaranteed for a considerable length of time. Thus you see there will be no necessity for some years for the further expenditure of road funds on these pikes, and therein lies the benefits to the other roads; the funds thus saved will be expended on the roads which did not receive the benefit of this outside aid, and the county will eventually be enabled to place every turnpike within her borders in first class condition.

This cannot be accomplished in a day, it will take time, but have you any other remedy to suggest which gives promise of either quicker or better results? Most assuredly you have not. Then take the matter under consideration, if you have been skeptical, give it your honest consideration from every angle, and after you have done this, we feel certain you will VOTE FOR THE BONDS.

PLANS

For Get-Together Conference.

Democratic Meeting In Louisville, March 18th, to be Notable Event.

LOUISVILLE, KY., March 12th—Final plans are now being made for the big get-together conference of Democrats from all parts of Kentucky which will be held here on Thursday, March 18th.

Acceptances to the invitations are literally pouring into the Committee having charge of the arrangements and indications point to the event as one of the most notable political gatherings in the history of the state.

A banquet will be given in the evening at the Seelbach Hotel, which will be attended by members of the State Central and State Executive Committees, Democratic members of the General Assembly, Democratic Editors, Democratic Circuit Judges and Commonwealth's Attorneys, the chairmen of the Democratic County Committees in the 120 counties of the State, and a number of others prominent in party councils.

The principal speaker at the banquet will be Mr. Homer S. Cummings, the Chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Mr. Cummings is one of the most forceful and graceful speakers in public life today, and the Committee on Arrangements are congratulating themselves on having secured him. The speaker on Kentucky affairs is to be Judge Alex P. Humphrey, of Louisville, whose pre-eminent standing at the bar and broad grasp of public questions is everywhere recognized. Col. P. H. Callahan, of Louisville, who has been the moving spirit in the work of the newly-formed Administrative Committee in the party will act as toastmaster, and the meeting will be called to order by Judge Charles A. Hardin, Chairman of the Democratic State Committees, who has also taken an active interest in the new party work.

No political meeting on such a comprehensive scale was ever before undertaken in Kentucky, and the enthusiasm which is being shown in the matter is taken as a splendid augury for party success in the state this fall.

WOMAN

Convicted of Murder by Garrard County Jury

Mrs. Bessie Padgett, indicted by the Grand Jury at the last term of the Circuit Court was tried last week on a charge of murdering her husband James Padgett, was found guilty of manslaughter and given four years in the reformatory at Frankfort. Mrs. Padgett was living with her husband in the Buckeye section, on the farm of Mr. J. M. Amon at the time of the killing. Her defense was that her husband was choking her and attempting to kill her when in self defense she struck him with a heavy stick on the head which later resulted in his death. The prosecution contended that the husband was murdered while lying in his bed about eight o'clock at night.

Let's Add to our Laurels

Garrard county's reputation for the production of the best burley tobacco is world wide. Garrard is one of the best hemp producing counties. Garrard county is the original home of the famous "Red Berkshire Hog." Garrard county is unexcelled in the production of agricultural and live stock products. Garrard county has three Consolidated Schools, the equal of any in the state, and a Graded and High School second to no other school of its kind in the state. Garrard county has the best, most complete and modern, as well as one of the largest Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouses in the state. Garrard county has other advantages, too numerous to mention, which are attracting within her borders citizens from far and wide, all anxious to live, educate and raise their children in such an enlightened community.

Garrard county has a system of turnpikes that—need bettering; a system of turnpikes that needs to be brought up within keeping with the high plane upon which the county rests and prides itself.

The opportunity to better these turnpikes, and at a minimum cost, now presents itself to our citizenry. And they say "opportunity knocks once at every man's door". Are you going to lose our county's opportunity. VOTE FOR THE BONDS.

A WORD FOR ROAD BONDS.

LET US REASON TOGETHER AND DO IT FAIRLY.

To the Editor of the Record: WHAT DO WE GET IF THE BONDS FAIL TO CARRY ON MARCH 30th.

We get just what we have now. Mud holes and roads almost impassable.

We get to pay our state road tax about $6,500.00 annually and let counties that vote bonds and accept government aid use it for their benefit.

We get to pay our automobile tax on about 600 automobiles at sixty cents per horse-power, making a total of about $12,000.00, more, this too to be used by the same counties accepting state and government aid and Garrard County furnishing the above amounts at a total loss to itself and to benefit the other counties.

We get to keep up our roads ourselves by our own county road fund which has proven to be inadequate and insufficient in every respect, since in the last ten years, the travel and use of same has doubled and thribbled in that time and we will see our roads go from bad to worse until within the next few years we will have impassable roads, in fact, no roads at all on the present system.

WHAT DO WE LOSE IF THE ROAD BONDS FAIL TO CARRY MAR. 30th.

If we fail TO CARRY THE BONDS and refuse to accept the state and government aid we lose $250,000.00 plus $18,500, making a total of $268,000.00, and lose a road as good as the Lincoln Highway.

If it turns out as is believed and fully expected and as it will, no doubt the State will take over the roads and will pay the counties for them. We would then receive our county bonds amounting to $192,000.00 back. We could then build many roads and repair many miles more with this money.

WE CAN RIGHT NOW GET the $250,000.00, this amount plus the amount of the bonds $192,000.00 totals $442,000.00. This money would be let on road contract by government direction and the road contracted for would be built under government inspection by blue prints and surveys and would be received by government inspection when completed.

We can rest assured that if UNCLE SAM spends his money to build roads or takes income tax reports, a fellow has to have things mighty near right if he gets by.

Believing that I have fairly represented the above subject and having confidence in the citizenship of Garrard County, I feel confident that any question left to them will be rightly and honestly settled by the voters of the county.

Respectfully,

R. H. BATSON.

MAY STUDY MERITS OF HORSE AND TRACTOR

The Tractor is Supplanting the Horse Entirely—It is Proposed to Make a Careful Study of This Tendency.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One of the chief means of effecting increased and more economic production on the farms of this country, and consequently of reducing high cost of living to a considerable degree, is a more efficient and complete utilization of farm power, according to the report of a special committee recently appointed by the secretary of agriculture. This report gives formal expression to the conclusions arrived at in a conference recently held in Chicago at the invitation of the secretary. This gathering included representatives of farmers, horse breeders, tractor and implement manufacturers, saddle and harness makers, feed producers and workers from the farm management, animal husbandry and agricultural engineering departments of agricultural colleges, as well as representatives of various divisions in the federal departments, including the bureau of animal industry, the rural engineering division of the bureau of public roads and the office of farm management.

Will Such Scenes Become a Thing of the Past?

Merits of Horse and Tractor.

Studies which should be made to show the relative merits of horses and tractors for use in various capacities on the farm was the central theme of discussion. The conference recommended that a series of studies and investigations relating to five principal subjects be undertaken under the auspices of the United States department of agriculture in co-operation with state agricultural colleges.

Under "farm power requirements" it was suggested that attention be given to the farmers' needs in various field operations, in hauling and in the operation of heavy belt-driven machinery and in small power operations.

Under the topics "animal power" and "mechanical power" the recommended field of investigation includes a study of the preferable size of animal and mechanical power units, costs of maintenance, total utilization of power units and the quality of work done by each.

Classed under the subject "relation of forms of farm power to man labor" the themes listed for consideration include seasonal demand for labor, the effect of time and weather limitations, the cost of man labor, the quality of work required and so on.

The fifth topic, "influences (of various types of power units) on farm organization and operation," covers such items as the size of the farm, the size of fields, the topography of the farm, intensity of culture and total farm products.

Money for Studies.

The conference recommended that appropriations be made for these fundamental studies of farm power problems and that when such appropriations become available the investigations be planned by a committee of the ablest men available.

FEEDING POULTRY FOR EGGS

Most Important Matter After Making Careful Selection of Hens Kept During Winter.

(By E. J. PETERSON, North Dakota Agricultural College.)

When a careful selection of the flock has been made, the next important thing is feeding. In order to make hens lay in winter we must duplicate summer conditions. To take the place of grasshoppers, worms and bugs obtained in the late spring and summer, the fowls must be provided with animal food. After the frost has killed the bugs and worms, high-grade meat scraps offer a convenient form of animal food. Fresh green bones make one of the very best animal foods. Half an ounce per hen daily will be sufficient. When this amount of green bone is fed, no other animal food is required. Skim milk is also very good.

PIGS NEED MINERAL MATTER

Excellent Practice to Place Mixture of Charcoal, Lime and Salt in Self-Feeder.

Pigs kept in confinement, which is usually the case when they are being fattened for the market, are generally not fed enough mineral matter and in order to satisfy their craving for minerals it is an excellent practice to place a mixture of charcoal, lime and salt in a separate compartment of the self-feeder. Some add sulphur and wood ashes to this mixture.

COMPOST SAVES FERTILIZER

Good Means of Supplying Needed Organic Matter for Soil—Expense of Pile Is Small.

The compost pile is one means of supplying needed organic material for the farm. The materials which can be used are ordinarily wasted, and the expense of making the pile is slight when compared with its fertilizing value.

ACCURATE RECORDS OF MILK

Only Way of Knowing Just What a Cow Is Producing—Study Details Before Discarding.

There is only one way of positively knowing that a cow is a profitable milk producer and that is by keeping accurate and complete records of production and it is not fair to condemn a cow to be slaughtered before these records are studied in detail.

PREPARATION OF HERD BOAR

Animal Will Require Heavier Feeding Than During Idle Summer Months—Supply Mineral.

An essential point in herd management is preparation of the boar for the breeding season and his care during that time. Naturally he will require heavier feeding than during the idle summer months. A ration of milk, ground oats and wheat middlings fed in a thick slop will be palatable and nutritious. An ear or two of corn added will help it. Enough to keep him looking right and active should be fed. Two sows a day to aged boars and one sow to young ones are all that should be allowed. One service on the second day of heat will be found to settle the largest percentage of sows. Of course, supplying a mineral mixture and plenty of good grass at this time ought not to be neglected.

MIXTURE TO FATTEN TURKEYS

Best Feed Is Good Dry Corn and Liberal Supply of Fresh Milk—Do Not Pen Fowls.

The best feed for fattening turkeys is a mixture of good dry corn and a liberal supply of fresh buttermilk or fresh skim milk with other grain such as wheat, buckwheat and a little barley by way of variety. It usually does not pay to pen turkeys to fatten as they do not take to confinement readily though some people have been successful in confining turkeys in small yards or even in fattening batteries.

LACK OF BUSINESS SYSTEM

No Greater Cause for Loss and Drudgery on Farm—Good Judgment Helps Wonderfully.

There is no greater cause for loss and drudgery on the farm than a lack of business principles. System and good sense make long days shorter, hard work easier, mortgages lighter and the family life more easy and free.

ARTIFICIAL LIGHT FOR HENS

Does Not Make Fowl Lay Two Eggs in Day, But Does Hasten Spring Work Conditions.

Artificial light in the poultry house in winter does not make a hen lay two eggs a day, as some people seem to think, but it does make conditions such that she does not have to wait for spring to begin her spring work.

OLD HICKORY

Distinguished Wagons

If there was any way in which OLD HICKORY Wagons could have been improved, it was by standardizing production and adopting the Standard 56 inch track.

In every state, in every county, in every community, the automobile is today the acknowledged track maker.

In any state, therefore, in any county, in any community, the wagon that follows this well-defined 56 inch track is a better wagon.

For it saves the team, rides without bumping, minimizes strains and stress on wheels and axles, thereby costing less for repairs.

For a half century OLD HICKORY Wagons have been considered leaders in their field. Today by adopting the Standard 56 inch track, they are proving a strict adherence to their unshakable policy of service to users first, last and always. OLD HICKORYS are sold by

Says Same About Trutona Many Others Do—Did Wonders

Louisville, Ky., Mar. 17th.—"I can say the same thing about Trutona that so many other people are saying—it has done wonders for me." This frank statement came a few days ago from Mrs. Blanche Meddis, well known in her neighborhood, who lives at 531 East Madison Street. Mrs. Meddis, like scores of other Louisville people decided to try Trutona because of the unstinted praise that the Perfect Tonic was receiving from others. She is now highly enthused and deeply grateful over her relief.

"I used to work around feeling as though I was going to fall over," she said. "I didn't care much about eating and the little food I did eat wasn't digested properly. I had vomiting spells at times and very often experienced drowsy headaches. I was awfully nervous, too."

"I had read about the good work Trutona had been doing for others and realizing that my condition needed immediate attention, I decided to take this medicine. It has done wonders for me, just what others say it has done for them. I wouldn't be without a bottle of Trutona in the house."

Trutona is now being introduced and explained in Lancaster at McRoberts' Drug Store.

THE INFUSORIA Was A New One On Bobby.

While the Lowest Order of Animal Life, It Teaches Thrift Lesson.

By Mary Leon.

It was a rainy Saturday and Bobby and Betty had been helping their mother about the house. Now they were tired of work, and it was too bad to go out to play.

"What shall we do?" said Bobby. "I can't think of a thing we can do indoors to have any fun."

"I can't either," returned Betty. "I don't know what I want to do. I'll go and ask mother."

"Mother generally can think of something," said her brother. "Run along and ask her."

Mother stopped her work and came back with Betty, and they all three sat on the sofa together.

"How would you like me to tell you a story," she said.

"Oh, that would be fine, just the thing," said Bobby, and Betty said she agreed, but added: "Make it a really true story, mother, will you?"

"Yes, I will. I like the true stories best myself. And I will tell you one about animals. The true stories about plants and animals are really much more interesting than the fairy stories you are so fond of, and you children are getting old enough now to appreciate them."

"What animals will you tell us about, mother? I like dogs and cats," This from Bobby.

"I like to hear about birds," said Betty. "But I'd rather mother would choose."

"Well, I am going to tell you about infusoria."

"Infusoria? I never heard of them!" exclaimed both children in a breath.

"I thought as much," returned mother smiling. "The infusoria are the lowest of all animals. The protozoa are the very lowest order or class of animals, and the infusoria are the lowest of the protozoa. They are so small that the eye cannot see them at all. One must look through a microscope in order to see them."

"My, that's funny," said Bobby. "What do they look like?"

"They are nothing but a body shaped like a cup with a grasping arm or tail."

"Just a body with a tail to grab things with?" asked Betty in amazement. "No head or legs or eyes or anything?"

"Nothing else at all—just the body and one grasping tail. But they can fight."

"Fight?" Bobby sat up very much interested.

"Yes, they have been seen to stick themselves on to another larger one and hold on for dear life. The larger one would squirm about with sudden jerks and fight with its tail to try to loosen the hold of the little one, but the little fellow clung tight for a long time, and fought to hold its place."

"My goodness!" said Bobby. "An animal with no head or arms or legs or eyes putting up a fight. That beats me. That's the funniest thing I ever heard."

"It seems to have plenty of sand, anyway," said Betty.

"It kind of makes me ashamed of myself," said Bobby. "I guess with good arms and legs and a head all to myself I ought to do a little more hustling and be able to earn more and get my Thrift Stamp book filled a little faster. This is a rainy day and I'm going out to see if somebody doesn't want something done or some errands run that will buy me one more Thrift Stamp, anyway."

"Good-bye, Betty and mother. But mother, don't you tell any more stories till I get back. I want to hear them too."

"No, I won't. I'll let Betty help me with the baking and then I'll give her a Thrift Stamp to match the one you are going to earn."

When Mr. Watterson was in political trenches, Democracy was always "unterrified and undefiled," and The Courier-Journal was the "star-eyed goddess of tariff reform" as well as "the Old Lady on the corner." He would pursue his objects of assault as quickly "from hell to breakfast" as "from hell to iron works;" and when he clariomed, "To Your Tents, O Israel," the Israelites mouthed their trumpets of ramshorn and bade the sun to stand still and the moon in the valley of Avalon.

When he paid a compliment none could be more delicate and captivating than he. "We look toward you, Uncle Joe," he would say of the Speaker, and may God bless your good old Republican soul!

A newspaper to be alive and vital must make mistakes; it cannot be less human than its creators. The mistakes must be few but when convinced of its errors a newspaper, like a true man, should be quick to admit and rectify them. But there must be the fire of the heart, as well as the fiber of the brain in newspapers; and no editor ever knew better or better applied this fact than the great Kentuckian who, a few days since at Miami, Florida, found his eightieth birthday settling gently down upon him.

In everything he wrote, Mr. Watterson always had a purpose and he adhered to it resolutely, regretting that in pursuing it he must inflict a wound here and there, sorrowing for friends lost, welcoming friends won, but advancing always in the general interest as he discerned it. He endured abuse, criticism, dissension and misunderstanding; but he won through. And it was because he put his heart into every fight and the temperature of his blood rose accordingly that he sprinkled the pages of American history with those compelling phrases which will forever be associated with the great political and social movement of his times.

After he had fought for the establishment of the civil and legal rights of the negro in the South; after he had made the greatness of Abraham Lincoln's soul appreciated among the Southern people; after the Greeley and Tilden campaigns, Mr. Watterson found himself in the campaign of 1884 with a slogan to sound for party victory. To him, party victory seemed a necessity to the nation; out of that need and the memory of the governmental scandals of the past few years came the resonant "Turn the rascals out," which turned them out, and "Civil Service reform," which began to change public office from the spoils to the merit system. "A tariff for revenue only," one of the most immortal of his political phrases belongs also to this period in which, too, was struck off that great designation of James G. Blaine as "The Plumed Knight."

In latter years he changed his mind about Grover Cleveland who became "The Stuffed Prophet" to the gleeful interest of the nation and with whom Mr. Watterson saw his party "marching through a slaughter-house into an open grave." There followed the period in which Mr. Bryan was impaled on the editor's pen as "The boy Orator of the Platte," a never to be forgotten designation. Roosevelt as "The Man on Horseback" he aided mightily toward defeat for a third term; and as "The Schoolmaster" he drew a swift cartoon of President Wilson which will endure.

When Mr. Watterson was in political trenches, Democracy was always "unterrified and undefiled," and The Courier-Journal was the "star-eyed goddess of tariff reform" as well as "the Old Lady on the corner." He would pursue his objects of assault as quickly "from hell to breakfast" as "from hell to iron works;" and when he clariomed, "To Your Tents, O Israel," the Israelites mouthed their trumpets of ramshorn and bade the sun to stand still and the moon in the valley of Avalon.

When he paid a compliment none could be more delicate and captivating than he. "We look toward you, Uncle Joe," he would say of the Speaker, and may God bless your good old Republican soul!

made mistakes but he made history while making them, and he always bent his whole soul and heart to a cause he believed in. The roles of Aristides and Socrates alike he scorned, believing that no mortal man could assume them; but he was St. George to every dragon in the public path, and those who denied them to be dragons he thrust roughly aside. No Other Light Car Offers So Much

Unusual power and control, quick pick-up and extraordinary acceleration to real speed, are features inherent in the Cleveland Six and features with which Cleveland owners are delighted.

Many a Cleveland Six owner has said, "It would be hard to tell you what a good car the Cleveland honestly is. It's wonderful."

The Cleveland is wonderful because it is a splendidly developed and finished product, not a car rushed into the market. Three years ago the plans for production of this car were far advanced. But, with war approaching, production and marketing were delayed though experimental and engineering work were continued and test cars kept on the road. When war ended, came the Cleveland.

Built in a fine big factory, with all conditions and equipment assuring the very best of manufacture, and built by men whose successful experience had been wholly in the production of fine cars, the Cleveland Six began rolling out to the world last August. Since then thousands have gone to delighted owners, and thousands more are going every month.

There isn't any other light car that will give you so much of all that you wish, and at such a fair price.

Come let us show you what a car the Cleveland is

HIGH SCHOOL DEPARTMENT OF ARMY SCHOOL AT CAMP TAYLOR SOLVES PROBLEM OF POOR BOY.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—With the opening of the High School Department of the Army School at Camp Zachary Taylor, near this city, officers in charge of the work declare that they have solved the age-old problem which faced the poor boy, ambitious for a higher education, who finds himself unable to go further than the Eighth Grade on account of financial conditions.

"Instead of going to High School," they say, "the youth can enlist in the army for a period of three or four years. During this time, he can, if he takes advantage of the school, prepare himself to enter any college in the country. At the same time he will be able to save enough from his wages as a soldier to pay his expenses while in college. With all his clothes, food and other necessities furnished there is no reason why a soldier should not save at least $20 a month if he wishes to do so. Every young man who is ambitious and desires an education should look into this army proposition before going further."

The famous First Division, stationed at the local camp, has styled itself "Kentucky's Own," and thousands of Kentucky boys have already joined its ranks. More are coming every day, and most of them are voluntarily taking up work in the school. Of course, it is all voluntary. No one is compelled to attend.

SENATOR MARK SMITH ONCE STUDENT OF TRANSYLVANIA

Senator Mark Smith, of Arizona, was once a student at Transylvania College at Lexington. Senator Smith has taken front rank among the statesmen of the new Southwest, and often comes back to Kentucky to visit the old home at Cynthiana, and the scenes of his student labors at the Lexington College, where he laid the foundation of his subsequent career.

Raleigh, Lord Cobham, Mary, Queen of Scots, members of the Gunpowder Plot, and of the Archbishop of Canterbury, the prelate on charges of heresy.

In 1834, the library was enriched by a gift from "His Britannic Majesty William IV," of $1 folios, in each of which was bound a slip stating that the volume is to be "perpetually preserved in the library of Transylvania University." These include four volumes of the Domesday Book, catalogues of manuscripts in the British Museum, calendars of the proceedings in chancery and pleadings in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, statutes of the realm under various kings, and books of fac-similes of the historic charters of England.

Edward Everett in 1830 presented to the university twelve vellum-bound folios of Latin and Greek authors, one of which bears his autograph. The younger Michaux, the famous French scientist, gave the college a huge Chinese dictionary with translations in French and Latin. This gift, made in 1824, bears the autograph of the donor on a sheet of paper held down at the four corners of the wafers of the period, attached to the inside of the cover.

Mohammedan's Gift.

A Mohammedan theologian, whose name has not been preserved, gave to the college an "Illuminated Persian manuscript," which is spoken of in a catalogue of gifts to the college published in 1822. This manuscript was translated recently by a Persian scholar, and it proved to be the history, written in 1730, of Timour, the conqueror of Persia.

"Classics," published by some of the most famous of the publishers of the 16th and 17th centuries, still in perfect condition and sumptuously bound, constitute another feature of the library. Many of these bear on the margins notes made by readers in Greek letters as clear and perfect as the type in which they are printed. There are matchless examples of the typographers' art and include a copy of Plutarch's Lives, published in Paris in 1624, which is 16 1/2 by 11 1/2 inches, and four inches thick, and weighs sixteen pounds; a large tome of Grotius, made in Amsterdam; a three-volume edition of G. B. B. made in Paris; a two-volume edition of Plautus, printed at Leipzig, and many smaller volumes in leather bindings brightened by decorations in gold.

The library also includes a copy of the first English edition of Novum Organum, published in 1653; Descartes' "Principia," published in 1689, and a London edition of Erasmus' "Familiar Colloquies," which gives evidence of much use, and which recalls the fact that it was denounced by the doctors of the Sorbonne as "an erroneous, scandalous and impious publication," and its reading prohibited.

Published Bulletin.

Transylvania College recently published a bulletin which contains a catalogue of the rare and valuable volumes in its library. Twenty-four pages of the bulletin are filled with this list. The books catalogued total 238 volumes. Some of the books in the college library show the names of the men who helped in the establishment of this, the first college of its grade west of the Alleghenies. Those names, written on the fly leaves of the books they gave to the University, include those of John Todd, Levi Todd, John Bradford, Henry Clay, Buckner Thruston, Benjamin Gratz, Charles S. Morehead, James Garrard, Richard M. Johnson, Thomas A. Marshall, Nathaniel G. Hart, Humphrey Marshall, Robert Wycliffe and John C. Breckinridge, most of whom helped to make the history of the commonwealth to which they thus early gave the books for its first educational institution.

TRANSYLVANIA CAMPUS COVERS TEN ACRES.

The Campus of Transylvania College at Lexington covers ten acres of land in the heart of the city. The college is just across the street from the Carnegie Library and students, therefore, are close to that institution, as well as having the advantage of the rare old library of Transylvania, which has attracted the attention of scholars the country over.

AID MARKETING FARM PRODUCTS

Extension of Activities Which Have Demonstrated Their Value Is Favored.

MUCH DEPENDS ON FARMERS

Promotion of Proper Storage of Crops on Farm Is One of Points Emphasized in Annual Report of Secretary Houston.

A private or governmental agency of national range to supervise or direct the marketing of the nation's farm products would probably break down of its own weight, in the opinion of David F. Houston, secretary of agriculture. He calls attention, in his annual report, to the fact that measures to this end have recently been introduced in congress and that the present time is especially fruitful of proposals of a large and novel nature designed quickly to solve marketing problems.

"In the field of distribution, as well as in the field of production," says the secretary, "the farmers of the nation must assume the main tasks of improvement. The government should furnish all possible aid in the way of information and suggestion, create favorable conditions under which production and distribution may take place, and especially see that the channels of trade are open and that abuses do not exist.

"There is no question," continues the secretary, "that everything which can legitimately be done to eliminate waste in marketing and to promote orderly distribution should be done. But the views of the most experienced students of the matter seem to be that we must approach the problem in simpler terms, work along lines which have clearly proven to be feasible, and promote existing tendencies and practices.

A Field for Work.

"Certainly we can proceed further by state, federal, and individual action in standardizing the production, the handling, and the packing of farm products and in promoting the use of standard containers and proper storage on farms, in transit and at market centers. We can continue to furnish assistance in the preparation and installation of accounting systems and more extensively and accurately gather and furnish to the farmers of the nation all pertinent statistical information. I need scarcely emphasize the paramount importance of making available daily to producers facts as to market prices, supplies, and demands. The market news services of the department of agriculture have already clearly proved their value. The department now conducts and operates an inspection service on fruits and vegetables covering 164 markets.

Help Co-operative Associations.

"Particularly must the federal and state agencies omit nothing to promote farmers' co-operative associations along right lines. Already, within a generation, many such bodies have appeared and rapidly expanded. It is estimated that they now market annually approximately $1,500,000,000 worth of commodities. They are of very diverse forms and sizes. For the most part, where they have been successful they have centered their activities on some one product, or on related products, in a given area. The indications are that with the continued success of these enterprises and with the proper educational effort and direction they will develop even more rapidly in the future. Through bulletins, news articles, and lectures the department of agriculture has endeavored to stimulate these efforts.

"The department is requesting increased funds to make this necessary action promptly if the appropriations are made."

NEED FOR MORE DAIRY COWS

Animals Afford Market for Crops and in Return Produce Foods for Farmer's Family.

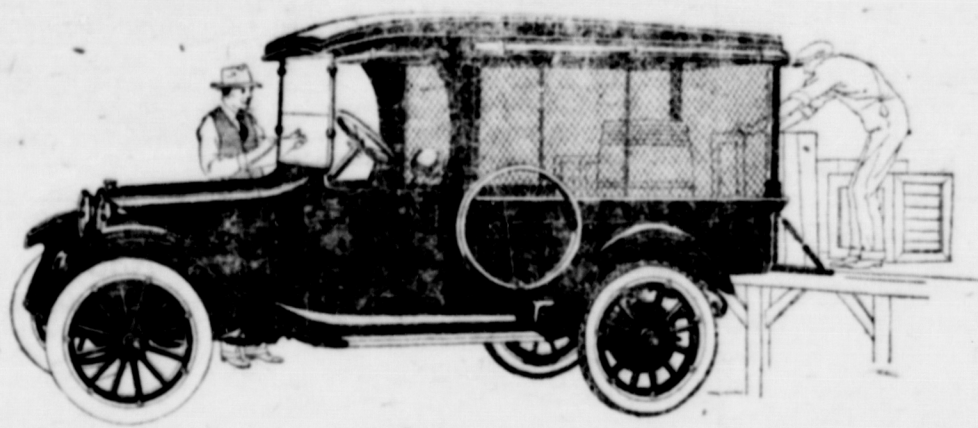

More dairy cows are needed on many farms to produce food for the family. To do this the cows will need feed, such as grain, hay, stover, and silage which may be produced. Hence the cows will afford a market for the crops and in return produce foods for the family and contribute a valuable by-product, manure, which if properly used, will enrich the soil for larger crops and better profits.

The Proper Thing.

"If you have an itch for writing, Robert, get a scratch pad."—Boston Transcript.

Roused to Indignant Protest.

It had been the custom to give the twins, Jane and John, presents almost alike. One day they got into a quarrel and John became quite angry, exclaiming: "I can't have anything by myself; I can't even have my own birthday in peace!"

This Gorilla Needs a Nurse.

A relief from ennui is offered in a recent notice in the "Personal" columns of the London Times. The advertisement read, "A person wanted to look after a baby gorilla; wage 30 shillings per week. Apply 'Allyce,' 15 Sloan street, Knightsbridge.

Grow Hair for Sale.

Peasant women of Italy, Dalmatia and Switzerland cultivate their hair especially for sale, twice a year, to hair dealers.

Many Try, but Few Succeed.

After a man has learned to dance and play golf his great trouble in life is to get a full day's work between 10 a. m. and noon.—Washington Star, day in peace!"

The Italian Sky.

The sky of Italy is noted for its clearness. The blue is deeper, not because the dust there is finer than in the northern countries, but because in the countries of the north, due to the greater coolness of the air, the vapor more readily condenses upon the dust particles.

Keep Him There.

The European hornet has been accidentally introduced into the United States and has established itself near New York city.

Get Intimate With Happiness.

Don't wait on happiness, but go out to meet him, and take him by the hand, and lead him in where all the folks can tell him "howdy."

History You May Not Know.

One earnest pupil in a coal-field school near Kittanning wrote an essay on Thanksgiving: "The Pilgrims sailed to Cape Cod," she said, "and the first winter they went to pick mayflowers in Plymouth in order to show Geo. 3 that anyone could worship God in their own way."

Cracks at Creation.

Will power is God-given, but the devil often takes possession after delivery.

The fellow who "hits the pace" in time generally finds the pace hitting him.

The high spots of life appear high only to those who are unable to attain them.

Energy is a gift of the gods, and possibly that is why some people never employ it.

No man has a mortgage on the good things of life. Some, however, just take them.

The greatest asset of some women is to weep—and peek through their fingers to note the effect.

For genuine, downright, assinine stupidity, we refer you to the young man who ASKS for a kiss!

The pathway of life is beset with many troubles, but without them it would be a monotonous existence.

Hope, with some of us, never dies. There is always a possibility that congress may some day adjourn.

Hope is a thing of inspiration and of infinite value, and yet without price, and immune from the profiteer.

Woman admire a manly man for his strength of character. The "sis-y" is gauged by his pocketbook alone.

It is noted, however, that the "wise one" who knows how to do everything very seldom does anything. We have a few.

The wise man never objects to adverse to criticism which is free from malice, for it is the source from which much of his wisdom comes.

"Don't ever think I would starve; I can cook myself," proudly declaimed a local benedict yesterday. Possibly, we fear he would be a tough one to digest.

Strange, isn't it, how quickly you can detect when a young man is in love? Take, for instance, the alarming symptoms noted in the case of—but that would be telling.

It requires but little effort to remove a banana peeling from the sidewalk, but it sometimes requires considerable effort to pay the doctor bill after a fall. Take the hint!

The man who goes out with a firm determination to seek and conquer fortune generally finds that it was with him from the start, for fortune deserts no man who doesn't desert himself.

And still, Major Dalrymple need not fear a job. Rum rebellions could be worked up beautifully in the movies, and star actors with a reputation could command almost any price.

Some men are always complaining that luck is against them. It is—and is brought about through their own indecision, vacillation, and inability to cope with the ordinary obstacles of life.

Preliminary plans have been made for a transcontinental passenger airship line, operating from coast to coast. The next step in the proceedings, presumably, will be the announcement of the customary strike.

We, of course, can see the faults of our neighbors quite clearly; and they, purchase, can see ours quite as clearly. It would seem, therefore, the part of wisdom to analyze our own dispositions before attempting to pass judgement upon those of others.

FOR CONGRESS.

We are authorized to announce RALPH GILBERT, of Shelby county, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in this, the Eighth Congressional District of Kentucky. State Primary Election, Saturday, August 7, 1920.

FOR CONGRESS.

We are authorized to announce COL. FRANK L. RIPPY, of Anderson county, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in this, the Eighth Congressional District of Kentucky. State Primary Election, Saturday, August 7, 1920.

Senator John Sharp Williams expresses our views as to what should be done by the Senate with the Lodge reservations to the League of Nations. He says:

"You ask me what I think of accepting the League of Nations with the Lodge reservations?"

"My reply is that nothing more foolish or more criminal could be done than to adopt a League of Nations with reservations such that the instrument would be emasculated and foredoomed to failure. The worst thing that could happen to the world and for idealism everywhere and for that higher order of altruism that ought to be demonstrated by high statesmanship would be the object lesson of an unsuccessful League of Nations."

Amendments Mean Failure.

"It is infinitely better to let Great Britain and France and Italy and Japan and Holland and Denmark and the other nations, including the Argentine and several other South American countries, who have unqualifiedly accepted the League of Nations as it was drawn and agreed to by the assembled wisdom of the world, try to put it into operation as it was agreed upon by Great Britain and France and Italy and Japan than to force our reservations upon Europe and make foredoomed failure of the whole business."

"The concert of Europe has upon several occasions prevented great wars and the League of Nations, even if we were out of it, which, however, would still contain not only the great Powers of Europe, but nearly all the smaller and neutral Powers of the world, would have a great moral force and might prevent wars for years to come."

Would End Concert.

"If, however, we emasculated it by reservations, which undoubtedly would be accepted by Europe with the hope of our financing them, there would not only be left no concert of Europe with teeth in it, but no Amphictyonic Council of the civilized world, the thing we have hoped for through the league. Rather than adopt the Lodge reservations, it would be better to wait."

"Some day the American people will knock at the doors of the council in Europe and ask to be admitted. It is a perfect shame that we cannot enter as a charter member and dominate the league, as we undoubtedly would have dominated it; but it is better to fail to enter and fail to dominate than it is to destroy."

Reservations Spell Doom.

"The Lodge reservations spell simply destruction—tooth drawing and emasculation. There will be nothing left but 'a rope of sand' which we could not even pick up from the ground. If we are not willing to bear our share of the burdens of a common civilization in the interest of peace and the name of the Price of Peace, let us just simply say so (and the Lodge reservations do say so), and stay out of it and leave the balance of the world to keep the peace of the world under a higher order of civilization than we seem yet to have reached, at least, as represented by the United States Senate."

"Remember that if a League of Nations failed you never could make the average man understand that it was not THE League of Nations which failed. He and all the lovers of peace in the world would become disgusted at any possible proposition of another league in the future and would simply say:

"'Oh! we have tried that and it failed.'"

Senator Stanley is correct in his stand with President Wilson. Let us have a real League of Nations or no League at all."

CHRIST, EASTER, AND US.

Easter Sunday! We all know what it signifies. It was the day on which Christ arose from the dead and ascended into heaven.

Let us of this town make it the day on which we all arise to the occasion and go to church.

The church is the great stepping stone on the road to heaven, and Christ has blazed a clear trail to its door.

If Christ could give his life for mankind, surely mankind can give Easter Sunday in commemoration of his sacrifice.

What a day it would be if every person in this town—every man, woman and child—would go to church on Easter Sunday!

Probably such an event has never been recorded in this country since the days of the Pilgrim Fathers.

But the impossible is always possible—in America. It is possible in this town.

Shall we make a clean sweep on Easter Sunday by ALL going to church?

The editor was expected to write a learned and rhetorical editorial on the glories of Easter Sunday. Instead we are making a humble but practical suggestion to the people of this community.

And we are ready to take our own place in the ranks of what would be the greatest procession ever known in American history—the spectacle of an entire community marching to church in honor of that good man who gave his life for them.

Will YOU go?

WHAT OF TOMORROW?

Today American products, exorbitant in price, are in great demand in Europe. This is so because Europe, devastated by war, can not make these articles themselves fast enough to supply the immediate demand.

But in time Europe will be making sufficient for home consumption and will have an additional output for export.

In America wages are abnormally high, as are also the raw materials. The cost of manufacture is therefore "in the sky."

In Europe labor is much cheaper and articles can be marketed at a cost below that for which we can produce them.

In time, when Europe has recovered, America will be required to compete with these countries for world trade—America with its high cost of manufacture against Europe with its low cost.

That is the condition which the present insane price inflation will bring about.

The misfortune of others has made us fortunate today—has enriched us beyond the dreams of avarice.

But tomorrow it may be the reverse.

It is worth our serious consideration, when we hear people talk of prices going even still higher.

Even a Shylock meets his Waterloo sooner or later.

WE HAVE BOTH.

A young man stood on a street corner, idling away a few moments of time.

Across the way, on another corner, stood another young man, similarly occupied.

A lady came down the street, neatly and tastefully dressed. She passed on.

"There goes one of the sweetest women in town, remarked the first young man to a friend."

"Say, sport, that Jane's got some figure," said the second one to his friend.

But it is all a matter of breeding and taste.

We have them both in this town.

THE LANCASTER HIGH SCHOOL

Visits the Capitol.

On Tuesday morning, about 50 high school pupils, accompanied by their teachers and several friends, visited Frankfort, the first visit for many of the party to the capitol. On the way over the trip was without incident, except for a few stories and songs.

The Penitentiary was the first place visited. Mr. Jesse Arnold took special pains in pointing out things of interest to all. After seeing the "Pen" several of the boys said that it would "pay to be good."

From the Penitentiary, they went to the Capitol where Mr. George A. Lewis, a former custodian of the capitol, took special delight in pointing out and explaining every thing of interest about this beautiful building. In the State Reception Room, Governor Morrow greeted the school and urged the young men and women to prepare themselves to take up the duties of citizenship. The Garrard county Representative, Mr. Mack Morgan also spoke briefly.

The Court of Appeals was in session when the party visited the Court Room. On a second visit to this room Mr. Lewis pointed out much that was interesting. The visits to the House and Senate were as interesting as could be. Much that was of particular interest was seen in the rooms of the State Historical Society.

Superintendent of Public Instruction, George Colvin, gave the school a royal welcome to the Department of Education, and introduced Senator Antle, pilot all good school legislation in the Senate.

From the Capitol, the school visited the Executive Mansion and then reported to the depot for the five o'clock train. There was a bit of disappointment because the down pour of rain prevented a visit to the Old State House and the cemetery.

On the whole, and in spite of the rain, the trip was an enjoyable one. But the real fun began when a bride and groom boarded the train at Nicholasville.

The following made up the party: Alice Sutton, Stella Mae Grow, Mary Brown, Elisha Carrier, Francis Elliott, Nell Noland, Stella Henry, Homer Rice, Josephine Burnside, S. D. Cochran, Eugene Cochran, Clyde Holtzclaw, Earl Swope, Carl Perkins, Ruby Gastineau, Mayme Stapp, Paul Stapp, Maude Clark, Vela Vaughan, Virginia Beazley, Martha Ward Sweeney, Lucille Sutton, Emily Bourne, Clyde Hughes, Della Rice Hughes, Jane Haselden, J. R. Haselden, Helen Guiley, Anna Faye King, Judith James Daniel, Walker Robinson, Samuel Elliott, Cecil Henry, Lula Anderson, Laverne Hicks, Laverne Dickerson, Mollie Crisillis, Elizabeth Hagan, Elsie Meadors, Sara Bland, Marris Swinebroad, Anna Britton Moss, Genie Moss, Addie Crisillis, Miss Lutz, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Bastin, Miss Sexton, Miss Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins.

The attractive home-to-be of Mr. Henley Bastin, which is under way of construction is rapidly nearing completion. It has many pleasant features and is designed to provide comfort and convenience. The house is especially fortunate in its site, which is elevated, has splendid old trees and gives a fine view of the open country, it having been an extension of the garden of the gracious old estate known as the Mrs. Pattie Gill place.

A number of relatives and friends joined Mrs. Ross Bastin at her home Friday at an elegant dinner in the celebration of her father, Mr. William Lear, 68th birthday. The home was decorated in pink and white carnations and the menu were also in pink and white in so far as was possible. A huge white birthday cake topped by pink glowing birthday candles formed the center piece and was cut with good wishes for his future happiness and many returns of the day. May this splendid gentleman live to enjoy many more of these happy events, is the wish of his numerous friends.

The women of the Club want to express their gratitude to Mrs. Peddicord and they feel that the entire success of the "Womanless Wedding" was due to her efforts and that the compensation of one half of the receipts she received was earned by hard and honest work.

SPECIAL PROGRAM Baptist Sunday School.

The fourth Sunday of March is an annual missionary day in the Baptist Sunday Schools of the South. Last year this was a memorable day in the local Baptist church, and this year we hope to make it even more memorable.

A splendid program has been arranged in which every child will have a part. We are sure you will enjoy the service, and hope you will come and receive a part of the joy and inspiration that always comes to us through these services. The recitations and songs of the children are sure to wind up the loose cords in your spiritual life, and strengthen your faith. We are expecting to have a banner attendance on that day and are counting on the presence of our full Sunday School enrollment. Don't forget the date! March the 28th at 10 o'clock. C. D. Strother.

Lancaster Friends

Congratulate.

News comes from Washington that Miss Emma Hays who recently underwent a Civil Service examination before the Lancaster Civil Service Board, headed the list, which means that she will be postmistress at Stanford, as soon as the unwinding of the government red tape will permit.

Miss Hays is a niece of Mr. James

A. Beazley of this city, and also has a host of warm friends in Lancaster who rejoice with her in her good fortune.

VOTE FOR THE BONDS.

Lancaster is to have a circus, a "big'un" on May 1st.

Yes, the roads ARE bad; the remedy lies in a vote for the bond issue.

"Ground Hog Winter" expired last Sunday. Who will dare say he is not a true prophet.

The early gardner is afflicted with a severe backset this spring, but is hoping to soon be about his customary duties.

Some of the performers in the "Womanless Wedding" surely missed their calling in life; they should have entered vaudeville.

Notwithstanding the extreme high cost of building material and labor, an unprecedented amount of building is contemplated in Lancaster during the year.

If one half the acreage of tobacco that has been set around the country store stove this winter is set in the ground this year, we will sure have a bumper crop.

If you have not made up your mind on the bond issue, you should take a trip over some of our county turnpikes, you would quickly be convinced of the advisability of voting "Yes" on the question.

The fishing fever gained supremacy over his discretion with Joe Kelly last week; he went out and caught a bucket of minnows, intending to "trem" the next day, but when the next day came, there was a snow on the ground and a thick coating of ice on his minnow bucket.

Among the numerous prospective home builders is Mr. J. W. Smith who is planning to build a brick house in colonial design on his lot on Maple Avenue. This charming type is especially adapted to suburban towns, and our town would gain in beauty were it generally adopted.

The Belgian Government recently held a ceremony in commemoration of the death of a popular poet who had fallen in the Great War, the King, Queen, nobility and high officers of state being in attendance. The King and Queen of Belgium in their tour of America charmed all by their simplicity and kindness. It is an old saying that aristocrats make the best democrats. Perhaps the day has come when royalties make the best democrats of all.

Marmot Skins in Demand.
A large business is done in Manchurian marmot skins. The marmot is very much like a woodchuck, but it possesses a finer coat than does our woodchuck. Thousands of these skins are shipped from ports in northern Manchuria by parcel post through the Japanese post office, but skins of the cheaper grade are forwarded by freight in the usual way.

Bringing the Dead to Life.
The remarkable claim of ability to bring the dead back to life has been made by a Burmese lady doctor at Rangoon. The treatment is said to consist of seven days' application of internal and external remedies. The lady states that when revived the dead person has a new mind and better features, but the treatment must be continued for a month.

When Paper Really Was Scarce.
A hundred years ago paper was so dear in this county that butchers used to give their customers the meat wrapped up in a large vegetable leaf.

Snakes' Changes of Skin.
It appears that snakes change their skins several times a year before reaching the adult state. The main reason why snakes cast their skins is to provide for increased growth. The skin of a snake does not grow with the growth of the body, as is the case with warm blooded creatures. So when it begins to get too tight it is discarded.

Vicarious Courtship.
Under the social ideals of China every man is anxious to marry, but no man is permitted to seek a wife for himself. The contract of marriage is always made by a third party, and often a man finds himself bound to an imbecile, insane or chronically diseased wife, whose father has paid the marriage broker a high price to get her a husband.

DISINFECTING SOIL WITH BOILING WATER

Practical Means of Ridding Land of Certain Parasites.

Marked Increase in Percentage of Germination and in Size and Vigor of Plants Observed in Large Number of Tests.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The need of a simple, practical method for disinfecting small quantities of soil in which to grow healthy seedlings for home garden planting, now made more emphatic because of the great expansion of tomato and other club work, has prompted the bureau of plant industry to obtain more accurate data on the effectiveness of hot water as a means of ridding soil of the root-knot nematode, and certain parasitic fungi usually associated with root troubles. By means of a large number of tests it was found that an application of boiling water at the rate of seven gallons per cubic foot of soil in shallow benches practically eliminated the parasites. Applying this method to the needs of boys' and girls' garden club work, where the size of the seedbox or flat commonly used is 14 by 30 by 3 inches, 4½ gallons of boiling water would be necessary to disinfect the soil in such a flat.

In all cases a marked increase in the percentage of germination and in the size and vigor of plants grown in the treated soil was observed. Substantially the same method of killing plant parasites in the soil has been used with some success in certain vegetable greenhouses; but the department's experiments serve to determine accurately the temperatures required and also the necessary quantities of hot water. The root-knot nematode can be eliminated from the soil contained in a four-inch pot by submerging it for five minutes in water brought to a temperature of 208 degrees Fahrenheit. In eight-inch pots the organisms are killed by an application of boiling water at the rate of about three quarts to a pot.

PREPARE FOR NEW BUILDINGS

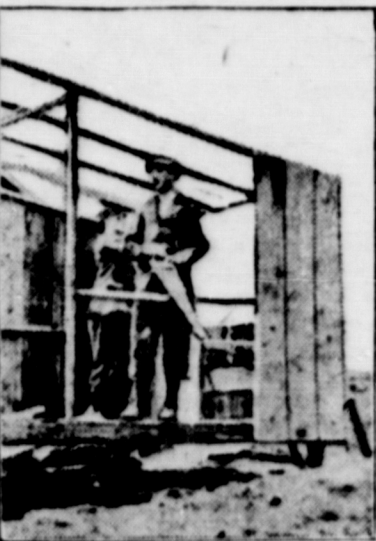

Best Time to Make Preparations for Contemplated Structures is in Late Winter.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Late winter is the best time to make plans and preparations for any building which is contemplated. This will assure the presence of the material when needed, and will permit the making of favorable contracts which would be difficult to consummate when the rush of spring work begins. As the coming season promises to be a busy one in the building line, every farmer who wishes to build is urged by the federal department to "shake a leg" and get his plans under way.

Now is the time to prepare hog houses for the spring crop of pigs. Repair where necessary, so as to minimize pig mortality due to inadequate shelter. Thousands of new-born pigs are lost each season due to unsatisfactory housing. Weather-proof houses will save money.

The late winter also is a propitious time for the building of new and repairing old fences. Worn-out posts and wire should be replaced where necessary to make the fields stock-tight. If possible the supply of posts should be cut on the farm or purchased from a neighbor. Osage orange, locust, cedar and chestnut posts are satisfactory for permanent fences. It is a good practice to peel the posts and dip the butts in creosote for preservative purposes.

The wise and frugal farmer piles the paint brush during the spare time of spring and fall, as he understands the dual value of paint in protecting against decay and weathering and in improving the sightliness of the farm buildings.

GET FARM AGENT'S OPINION

Farmers Will Do Well to Get Information Regarding Value of Various Fertilizers.

Farmers are advised by various state colleges to keep in touch with their farm bureau agent who has information about the value of various fertilizers and fertilizing materials. The farmer will do well to get the agent's opinion before substituting something new for the standard material he has used in the past.

HISTORIC BILL BOARDS

Seen Along Highways.

Writing history in letters a foot tall on pages fourteen feet high and standing the pages along the roadside so that he who runs may read is the most recent method adopted for recalling to memory of Kentucky much of the forgotten lore in which the State is rich.

Motoring along some peaceful country highway far removed to-day from the spots where history is believed to be in the making one comes upon a great open book labelled "History of the United States" and learn from its pages that near that quiet, secluded spot occurred some event that in early days made a decided dent in the course of events.

When these pages of history first began to appear on the landscape automobilists expressed a friendly interest in them, but as more and more places of historical significance were marked there came from the motorists a chorus of approval. Motor routes that were formerly rather dull affairs have suddenly become filled with a new interest, the silent places have become alive again with frontiersmen, sturdy pioneers re-people the countryside and daring fighters wage their small but fateful warfare in isolated places.

The credit for this novel method of reviving interest in the events of the by gone days belongs to the United States Tire Company. While one page of the big book sets forth interesting historical data the other page does not hesitate to assert the oft-reiterated truth that "United States tires are good tires."

The erection of these big bulletin boards—they are forty feet long and fourteen feet tall—is not confined to Kentucky. Already New England's towns and villages, redolent with tales of Pilgrims and patriots, are dotted with the big books. In a score of States in the Middle West and South many boards are in place, and on the Pacific Coast tourists learn the history of California, Oregon and Washington from the boards.

The boards are not things of a season only. It is the intention to "turn a page" each year and place new history upon it.

Each board fits into the landscape and by the fact that it performs a genuine service obviates the criticism directed against many bill boards. Instead of opposing the erection of the big books, many communities are stirred by local pride to urge that boards be erected in their vicinity, and many land-owners who have hitherto shown hostility when asked for permission to have sign boards placed on their property consent gladly to have their town advertised by some of the historical bulletins.

The history of Kentucky is told on these bulletin boards from the time that the earliest inhabitants built mounds in the northern and western part of the State up to the remarkable exploit of Sergeant Alvin C. York of Pall Mall, Ky. who distinguished himself in the Argonne, and not only won the Congressional Medal of Honor but also the undisputed honor of having achieved the greatest individual exploit of the World's War.

On these painted displays on the important motor highways facts are told of the Indian occupation. The Iroquois and other southern tribes known Kentucky well because of its abundance of game.

Several bulletin boards tell of Daniel Boone, the pioneer of Bucks county, Pennsylvania, who loved the solitude of the forest so much, and was so fond of hunting, that he penetrated into the unknown regions of Kentucky with six kindred spirits in 1769, constructing a fort on the left banks of the Kentucky river which he named Boonesborough, bringing his wife and family to the new town.

The story of Boone's capture at a place called "Salt Licks," nearly one hundred miles north of Boonesborough by one hundred Indians led by two Fenchemen, and of his being taken back to Old Chillicothe, where the great Blackfish, a renowned Shawanese Chief adopted him into his family, is interestingly told.

The story of the State is also told with facts about the formation of the region known as Kentucky County in 1776, the division of Kentucky in 1780 into Fayette, Jefferson and Lincoln counties by which it lost its name for three years, the birth of the republic in the decade of 1782-92, and the admission of Kentucky into the Union in the latter year.

Various painted displays are required to tell of Kentucky's distinguished citizen, Henry Clay, who made his home at Lexington and of the great political acts, with which his name is forever associated.

Kentucky has the distinction of rearing Abraham Lincoln, sixteenth president of the United States, who was born in a rude farm cabin near Hodgenville, on Feb. 12, 1809, and who the world today acknowledges in the words of Edwin M. Stanton "was a man for the ages."

Marked contrast between this rude farm cabin now preserved as a heritage of the Nation, is the wonderful memorial erected at Lincoln's birthplace at Hodgenville. Every motorist visiting Kentucky should follow the highway that leads to this memorial of a man whose greatness has increased as the events of his time have been more thoroughly understood.

It is interesting to recall what Kentucky was like in the days of Lincoln's youth. The President once said it: "It was a wild region with many bears and o'her wild animals still in the woods and there were some schools, so called; but no qualification was ever required of a teacher beyond readin', writin', and cipherin', to the rule of three. If a straggler supposed to understand Latin happened to sojourn in the neighborhood, he was looked upon as a wizard. There was absolutely nothing to excite ambition for education."

It was amid these surroundings that Abraham Lincoln made the best use that his limited opportunities afforded him, and learned all that the half-educated back-wood teachers could impart. A bulletin board tells that in Gentry's store, Elizabethtown, Lincoln clerked at odd times, until he was 19, when with Gentry's son, he took his first flat boat trading trip to New Orleans.

Various bulletin boards at Alexandria, Bardstown, Canmer, Corbin, Williamstown, West Point, Middlesboro and Pineville are needed to tell the story of the early pioneers, who carried their guns even to church, to be ready in case of an Indian attack, also for a chance shot at a deer, bear or turkey to add to the family's food supply. These pioneers had earth floors in their cabins. As the settlement grew, puncheon floors succeeded mother earth-hard floors came when the wilderness was conquered.

Sometimes the stories on these bulletin boards show the contrast between to-day and yesterday. One board telling of the pioneers of West Point says that they "dressed in pioneer homespun, leathern leggings and moccasins, hats of Buffalo wool sewed together with deer sinews and hunting shirts of buckskin." Another dealing with pioneer women settlers of Williamstown says that they "wore underwears of doekskin, dress and sunbonnet of buffalo wool and moccasins, in marked contrast to the fashion plate women of today."

At one time, elk and bison were abundant in Kentucky, but the settlers and the hunters using their death-dealing rifles, exterminated the elk and drove the buffalo herds westward until finally the white man practically exterminated the animal upon which the Indians had lived from time immemorial.

Various bulletin boards have been erected to tell of the sharp difference of the sentiment on slavery in Kentucky, families often being divided. It will be recalled that Kentucky furnished both Presidents of the opposing sections—Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis, the latter being born in Christian county, Kentucky, which now forms Todd county. Incidentally Governor Magoffin refused to honor Lincoln's call for troops, yet Kentucky sent 80,000 men to the Union Army, while 40,000 joined the Confederacy.

A number of bulletins are required to tell of General Braxton Bragg, who led a formidable force of 45,000 men into Kentucky, but after the battle of Perryville on October 8, 1862, retreated carrying with him a vast quantity of supplies.

Another notable soldier, who made Kentucky history, and who is mentioned on various bulletins was George Rogers Clark, who went to Kentucky in 1775 as a surveyor, but, when the western Indians were induced by the British to take up the tomahawk, became a natural leader of the people in defense of their infant settlement. He defended the frontier of Kentucky, and won his appeal for 500 pounds of powder by insisting "that a country that is not worth defending is not worth claiming." With his little force, he pushed to a small island opposite the present city of Louisville, where he erected block houses, drilled his men and planted corn. His taking of Kaskaskia resulted in the people he left behind at Corn Island (named for the planting of corn), sailing over to main land, and thus making the foundation of the city of Louisville.

Incidentally, Louisville was the home of James Audubon, naturalist, and it was in this city that he met Alexander Wilson, the celebrated ornithologist. Audubon was in business at that time, and it was on the visit to solicit Audubon's sub-

DR. RICHARDS' WORDS SHOW

WHY TRUTONA OVERCOMES

BAD AFTER-EFFECT OF "FLU".

"An Appetizer, System Builder, Strengtheners and Real Nerve Tonic," Prominent Physician Declares of Perfect Preparation

—What All "Flu" Victims Needed.

"As an appetizer, strengthener, system builder and real nerve tonic, I can heartily recommend and commend Trutona."

Dr. J. Richards, the prominent Tennessee physician, in making the foregoing statement, has really pronounced Trutona a remarkable treatment for overcoming serious after-effects of influenza, pneumonia and the like.

Victims of these dreaded winter maladies, after "recovering" from an attack, almost invariably find themselves possessed of little or no appetite and their systems in a dreadfully weakened, run-down, and nervous state. Considering Dr. Richards words it is easy to understand why Trutona has proven such a remarkable remedy for over-coming these bad after effects. "An appetizer, strengthener, system builder and real nerve tonic"—these are the qualifications that have won for Trutona the unstinted praise of thousands of unfortunate in influenza and pneumonia victims who have regained their health through the Perfect Tonic.

"WHAT OTHERS SAY"

Mike Hamilton, a traction company employe and well-known Terra Haute Ind., man who lives at 418 South

Pearl Street, enthusiastically praising the reconstructive powers of Trutona, says:

"I can hardly realize how much good Trutona's done for me in ridding my system of the after-effects of influenza. I certainly feel different nowadays and I can highly recommend Trutona especially as an after-the-flu medicine."

Harry Lee, 1661 Gallagher street, Louisville Ky. a sufferer from the after-effects of pneumonia, says: "I've gained twenty-eight pounds and feel fine now—just like a new man, since taking Trutona," all of which is surely conclusive proof of Trutona's merit.

"I've found Trutona to be very efficient in overcoming after-effects of influenza", declares Mr. Iva Gates, a well-known Peru, Ind., woman of 155 Canal Street.

There are scores of other similar statements and they prove conclusively that there is no better preparation for the treatment of after-effects of pneumonia, influenza, deep colds and the like than Trutona, the Perfect Tonic.

Trutona is sold in Lancaster, at R. E. McRoberts Drug store.

scription to his book on American Birds, that he met Wilson, who was naturally astonished when he saw Audubon's drawings of birds, superior to his own, some of them representing birds that he had never seen.

A man who wrote history big in Kentucky during the Civil War, mentioned on various highway painted displays, was Colonel John Hunt Morgan who entered the Confederate Army as captain of the Kentucky Volunteers and joined General Simon B. Buckner at the head of the Lexington Rifles. It was Colonel Morgan, who by his raids in Kentucky in 1862-63 made it necessary for the Federal Army to garrison every important town in the State, as Morgan's cavalry, which was a part of General Braxton Bragg's army annoyed General William S. Rosencrans's outposts and communications.

Morgan was able to mislead his foes, by the fact that he carried a telegraph operator with him at all times, tapped the wires for information and the same time acquired himself with their movements. As a result of the information obtained in this way, he made raids by which he captured many millions of dollars worth of military stores, captured and burned railway trains filled with supplies, tore up railroad tracks, burned bridges and destroyed culverts in the rear of the Federal Army.

Two bulletin boards have been placed on the highway to Paducah to tell of Paducah's distinguished men—the celebrated Indian Chief, Paducah, for whom the city is named and Irvin Shrewsbury Cobb, author, playwright and humorist, who began his literary career as a reporter at seventeen on the Paducah Daily News.

"Ain't That the Truth?"

Popular and Able Young Richmond
Minister Director of Campaign for Transylvania and United Society.

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 10—Rev. Homer W. Carpenter, pastor of First Christian Church of Richmond, who has been temporarily released from his duties to become acting director of the Kentucky division of the Disciples' World Movement at Lexington, has assumed charge of the headquarters in the First and City National Bank Building.

The movement is an enlargement of the Transylvania College campaign which was begun last December, and includes the organizations of the United Christian Missionary Societies and their affiliated interests in Kentucky.

Director Carpenter is addressing his best efforts to secure the attendance of every Christian preacher in Kentucky at the pastors' conference to be held in Louisville, March 17 to 19. The railroad expenses of all pastors in the State, and a representative of each of the institutions will be paid by the Inter-Church World Movement. Ample provision is being made for entertainment for those who attend the Louisville conference in the homes and apartment houses of the city, the price of rooms being very small.

Director Carpenter has associated with him in the office at headquarters a large clerical force, and is calling to assistance a group of experienced men and women who will help in the organization of the churches preparatory to the financial drive which is to be carried on from April 25 to May 2.

As the movement has been enlarged so as to include all missionary, benevolent and educational enterprises, it is believed that almost all the churches will co-operate in the raising of the $1,300,000 in the campaign. The right of designation being permitted. Churches and individuals may support all the causes of the movement by making undesignated contributions, or they may support a particular organization by designation.

DESCRIBING

Bounds Is Now Difficult

Geographical Lines Largely Abolished Since World War and Lessons Must Be Relearned.

In the old geographies, the bounding of countries and states was one of the exercises in which pupils became proficient through long and regular practice. For many decades, those boundaries were firmly fixed and unchanged but with the ending of the war the Peace Conference and the geographers were forced to revise the old limitations of territory.

Also as a result of the lessons of the war, citizens of America have been able to revise the limitations which bound them. Each still is bound on one side by the high cost of living, on another by his limit of earning capacity on a third by his duty to his community, his family and himself. But, his net income, his boundary on the fourth side is not a hard and fixed limitation.

Through saving and safe investment opportunity for expansion is unlimited.

Wise spending, economy, saving and wise investment are no less important in determining the net income than the earning capacity which provides the gross amount. The amount which it is possible to save must be determined by each individually, but in the safe-guarding of that sum no matter how large or how small the U. S. Government stands ready and willing to offer assistance through the issue of Government Savings Securities.

These securities range in amount from the 25 cent Thrift Stamp and the $5 War Savings Stamp to the $100 and $1000 Treasury Savings Certificates. All are safe and profitable. They bring sure and regular interest at 4 per cent compounded quarterly.

If you bound your state in life with these savings securities you have an elastic boundary which will expand with your expansion and keep pace with your growth in industry, ability and capital.

The Name "Gude's" the Guide to the Genuine.

It is a true saying that your health is only as good as your blood. Good, rich blood manifests in a healthy, natural complexion; clear, keen eyes; tireless energy and enthusiasm; and an abundant supply of reserve strength.

And just as positively does poor, thin blood directly influence the entire system. Pale, sallow complexion; dull eyes; a listless step; languidness; tiredness; worn-out feeling; general dejectedness and unhappiness—all are positive signs that the body is not receiving its proper nourishment through the blood.

Pepto-Mangan helps restore vigorous health, because it contains the very elements so much needed by the blood to enable it to perform its functions and supply the body with nourishment, energy, and strength.

For your convenience, Pepto-Mangan is prepared in tablet as well as liquid form. Both possess exactly the same medicinal value.

There is but one genuine Pepto-Mangan, and that is "Gude's." If the name "Gude's" is not on the package it is not Pepto-Mangan.

In Government's
Thrift campaign

L. R. Blackwood, postmaster at Hannibal, Mo., is one of Uncle Sam's servants who is doing his utmost to aid not only the government, but the people in the community in which he lives.

The following from the Hannibal Courier-Post is indicative of the interest Mr. Blackwood takes in his work:

"There is not one article in all the make up of life that will surpass Thrift," says Postmaster L. R. Blackwood. This is the second month in the year for this series of War Savings Stamps. He added "The outlook is good and from the inquiry that is being made thrift is making an early start and that means success in the end."

"The schools are asking for dates to be fixed for the placing of Thrift and War Savings Stamps in the hands of the boys and girls and this will make the postmaster go some for the next five months. Multiplied hundreds of dollars have already been purchased in these stamps during the month of January and February is making a good start."

"When do you expect to visit the schools?" was the next question the reporter asked Mr. Blackwood. "On Monday February 16, I shall be at the High School from ten to eleven o'clock. Wednesday the 18th at one o'clock, South School, Friday at one o'clock, Central School. This is as far as I have been able to make up the schedule for the schools at this time."

Mr. Blackwood said that he hoped the schools would all take notice to this and be ready on the dates mentioned for Thrift.

In passing it might be mentioned that the Courier-Post has been especially active in giving publicity to the matter sent out by the Savings Division, Press Bureau, and has had no small share in creating a demand for the U. S. Securities in Marion County.

Foley's Honey and Tar Compound

IT IS JUST WHAT CHILDREN
ought to have for feverish colds, coughs, "croup," and that tight, wheezing breathing. It stops croup, too. It eases and checks whooping cough, measles cough and bronchial coughs.

Every User a Friend
"My little girl had been having the croup every few nights, so I began giving her a few drops of Foley's Honey and Tar every two or three hours. That night she slept well, never coughed any, and next day her cold was gone."
—Mrs. R. M. Ranley, Stanford, Ky.

"My three children had a very severe attack of whooping cough. The first few doses of Foley's Honey and Tar gave them great relief, and it did them good."—Mrs. E. C. Hostler, Grand Island, Neb.

Foley's Honey and Tar has been used for more than thirty years in thousands of homes for relief from coughs, colds, spasmodic croup, tickling throat, hoarseness, whooping cough, bronchial coughs and the coughs that follow influenza or a gripe.

BANK BOOSTS BETTER SIRE

Anxious to Assist Campaign in Every Way Possible—Offers to Finance
Any Stockman.

The better sires campaign is attracting active attention on the Pacific coast. Recently the United States department of agriculture received a letter from a bank at Bend, Ore., containing the following statements:

"We are anxious to assist this campaign in every way possible and have been conducting a live stock improvement campaign for some time. This bank has brought in 15 registered beef bulls since March 1, and we are now arranging for a carload of stockmen to go to the Pacific International at Portland. We have offered to finance any stockman in the county who wishes to purchase pure-bred sires while at the stock show. We wish to link up with your organization in this campaign in every way possible."

The department of agriculture is ready to enroll in the campaign any live stock owner who fills out the pre-

STAND BY PRESENT 'T B' PLAN

Live Stock Associations Decide to Take No Steps to Lower Standard Now in Vogue.

After two years of practical operation of the tuberculosis-free accredited herd plan, a joint committee representing the pure-bred cattle associations and the United States Live Stock Sanitary association has unanimously decided that no steps should be taken to lower the high standard of the present plan.

It was decided that no herd should be accredited if it contains a tubercular animal, male or female. It was agreed by the joint committee, to show that owners are exerting an effort to exterminate the disease, that a supplementary list be made to the accredited herd list to contain the names of the owners of pure-bred herds that are free from tuberculosis on two annual tests but, in which the herd's bull reacts. Such a herd will not receive an accredited herd certificate. The reacting bull may be used under certain conditions.

The accredited herd plan is administered by the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture, in co-operation with the states.

STEERS FATTENED ON SILAGE

Interesting Feeding Test With Shelled
Corn Conducted at Missouri Station.

At the Missouri experiment station one lot of steers was fed 15 pounds of shelled corn per head per day along with 2.5 pounds of linseed oil cake 2.9 pounds of clover hay, and 27 pounds of corn silage. Another lot received no shelled corn but a little more of the oil cake and clover and 46 pounds of silage per head per day. The results were that the lot that received shelled corn and half a feed of silage charged $15.95 for 100 pounds gain, while the other lot charged only $10.69. The cost of feed per steer on shelled corn was $50.23, while with the other lot it was $21.17.

COULD HARDLY STAND ALONE

Terrible Suffering From Headache,
Sideache, Backache, and Weakness, Relieved By Cardui, Says This Texas Lady.

Gonzales, Tex.—Mrs. Minnie Philpot, of this place, writes: "Five years ago I was taken with a pain in my left side. It was right under my left rib. It would commence with an aching and extend up into my left shoulder and on down into my back. By that time the pain would be so severe I would have to take to bed, and suffered usually about three days...I suffered this way for three years, and got to be a mere skeleton and was so weak I could hardly stand alone. Was not able to go anywhere and had to let my house work go...I suffered awful with a pain in my back and I had the headache all the time. I just was unable to do a thing. My life was a misery. My stomach got in an awful condition, caused from taking so much medicine. I suffered so much pain. I had just about given up all hopes of our getting anything to help me."

One day a Birthday Almanac was thrown in my yard. After reading its testimonials I decided to try Cardui, and am so thankful that I did, for I began to improve when on the second bottle...I am now a well woman and feeling fine and the cure has been permanent for it has been two years since my awful bad health. I will always praise and recommend Cardui." Try Cardui today. E 78

BUICK Prices Have Not Advanced

Buick prices on open models have not changed since October, 1918. We do not know how long this condition will continue, but the achievement of maintaining a price level over eighteen months of the most uncertain manufacturing conditions ever known in the nation is a most striking testimonial to the efficiency of Buick methods and the sincerity of Buick efforts to sell its product at a fair price.

So far as we are informed, the Buick car is the only one in America whose price has not been advanced during this period. The following is the list of Buick models and the delivered price:

K-44 Three-passenger Roadster	$1,650.00
K-45 Five-passenger Touring Car	1,650.00
K-49 Seven-passenger Touring Car	1,950.00
K-46 Four-Passenger Coupe	2,275.00
K-37 Five-passenger Sedan	2,500.00
K-50 Seven-passenger Sedan	2,900.00

Remember, please, that these are the delivered prices and cover freight and war tax, extra tire, tire cover, bumper and lenses.

We are able at this time to make immediate delivery on the three open models, and will be so long as the few we have on hand remain unsold. There is no value comparable to the Buick at this price range, and the prudent buyer will not fail to grasp the opportunity.

VERY SERIOUS MENACE WHICH TUBERCULAR CATTLE ARE TO THE HEALTH OF CHILDREN

This Entire Herd, Apparently Healthy, Was Found to Be Affected With Bovine Tuberculosis.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One of the most important objectives in the campaign against tuberculosis among cattle, which is sometimes overlooked in the agitation regarding the effect of the disease on stock itself, is the very serious menace which tubercular cattle are to the public health. Children, in particular, are great sufferers from this source of infection.

Origin of Tuberculosis.

According to the best authorities tuberculosis of bovine origin represents about 25 per cent of all the cases of tuberculosis in children under five years of age. In certain types of the disease it is very much more, but taking the tuberculosis cases as a whole, about one case in four of every child under five acquires tuberculosis from cattle. It is estimated that in New York City between 6 and 10 per cent of the children that die in hospitals yearly of tuberculosis die of bovine tuberculosis. Medical authorities point out that the country has been very slow to appreciate the greatness of the menace of bovine tuberculosis in children. This need for greater protection of human beings, particularly children, from the dangers of bovine tuberculosis is one of the things strongly emphasized in the campaign against diseased cattle.

There are only two ways in which the disease can be eliminated. One is to assure that the milk is free from tubercle bacilli when it is produced, and the other is to destroy the tubercle bacilli present in the milk. The experts point out that the public should accept the statement that a common herd is free from tuberculosis with a great deal of caution unless there is ample evidence that the tuberculin test has been applied and applied frequently and applied correctly.

Use Eternal Vigilance.

Unless the milk which comes from the herd is in fact free from the tuberculosis it should be pasteurized. Furthermore eternal vigilance is necessary to make sure that pasteurization is carried on in the proper manner, otherwise the public consuming the milk is subject to great danger because it is acting on the assumption that it has been protected by proper pasteurization.

MALT SIRUP GOOD AS A SUGAR SUBSTITUTE

New Sweet Undoubtedly Will Make a Place for Itself in Every Household.

Has a Delicious Flavor Somewhat Resembling Honey, Which Adds Greatly to Its Palatability and Value in Cooking.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Malt sugar sirup is a brand new sweet which has arrived on a commercial scale at the psychological moment to relieve the sugar shortage, say the specialists of the bureau of chemistry, who have investigated various substitutes for sugar. In addition to being a sweet, malt sugar sirup has a delicious flavor somewhat resembling that of honey, which adds much to its palatability and value as a sugar substitute.

While malt sugar has long been known to chemists, its production on a commercial scale is only beginning. Two factors have stimulated its production recently. The shortage of sugar has developed a market for it, and the recent prohibition law has made available both the raw material and the machinery needed for its manufacture. Malt sugar sirup is made from the same grains as beer and may be made from corn or potatoes or any plant containing starch. Barley, which was used until recently in the manufacture of beer, can be used now to produce malt sugar sirup.

Breweries, with very little change, can be used and are now being used for its manufacture. Up to a certain point the process for making malt sugar sirup is the same as the process for making beer. Evaporating pans are the principal additional equipment required by breweries to become malt-sugar sirup factories.

Malt sugar sirup looks very much like maple sirup. It can be used for everything that cane sugar is used for. While its use on the table may not be quite as convenient as sugar, it is a most excellent substitute for table use when sugar is not to be had, as it not only provides sweetness but is equal to sugar in food value. For cooking and baking purposes and for making candy it is not only equal to sugar in convenience and food value, but is superior for some uses because it will not so readily crystallize.

Malt sugar sirup is now being sold in large quantities to commercial bakeries and candy and soft-drink manufacturers, who use it in place of sugar. The wholesale price as quoted in recent advertisements in trade papers and elsewhere is from 7 to 9 cents per pound in barrel lots. Many retail grocers do not handle it yet, because there has been little demand for it on the part of housewives. Grocers can now obtain it and no doubt will be glad to do so as the demand for it increases. Housewives can well conserve their dwindling supply of sugar by using it in cooking, baking and home-made confections, and even on the table for sweetening coffee, oatmeal and desserts. It can be used for every purpose for which sugar is used. If the housewives want it, the grocers will get it.

Although malt sugar sirup is being called upon, so far as household use is concerned, merely as a pinch hitter in the present emergency, the specialists expect that it will make such a lasting average that it will hereafter have a regular place in the kitchen. This is a case where the substitute makes so good that the regular, whose place it takes, may have to warm the bench. While it is not likely that this new sweet will replace sugar for table use in normal times, it undoubtedly will make a place for itself in the household as it is doing in the manufacture of food products. It is an excellent, wholesome sirup, and on account of its delicious flavor, is superior to sugar for some purposes in cooking and baking.

THOROUGHLY WASH ALL FOWL

Skin of Poultry Is Frequently Very Dirty When Brought From Market—Use Warm Water.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The skin of poultry is frequently very dirty when brought from the market. Fowls should not only be washed, but scrubbed with a soft brush and warm water in which a teaspoonful of baking soda has been dissolved. Such treatment will prevent the disagreeable and "hen" taste often noticeable in cooked poultry.

Poultry should be drawn immediately, and unless it is known to have been killed very recently, it should be thoroughly washed on the inside and used soon. Poultry that is drawn directly after killing, on the contrary, keeps better if not washed until used. It should be hung in a cold place or put into the ice box with a piece of charcoal inside the body. Cold-storage chickens, under no circumstances, should remain in a warm room before cooking. Such poultry should be kept at a cool temperature and cooked as soon as possible. All cold-storage food, when brought into a warm temperature, spoils quickly. Many cases of illness traced to the use of such food are merely due to careless handling and delay in cooking.

Potato salad should be made of cold boiled, hot baked, potatoes.

The stove will keep its polish if it is rubbed down with a newspaper.

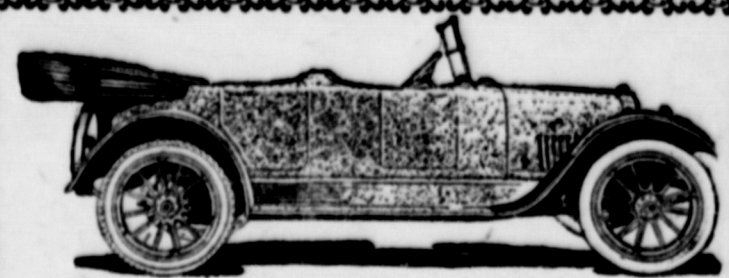

Thin linen blinds may be rendered stronger by pasting narrow tape down each side.

If you must rely upon the gas range for cooking preserves, always use an asbestos mat.

Candle grease on a carpet may be removed by means of blotting paper and hot irons.

Grass stains on clothing should be soaked in paraffin. The garment may then be washed as usual.

Have you ever tried a clothes pin to remove the cores of apples? It will do this quite as effectively as a regular corer.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

... OF ...

Special Election

... IN ...

Garrard County, Kentucky,

— ON —

TUESDAY, MARCH 30th, 1920

REGULAR TERM:

GARRARD COUNTY COURT; JANUARY 26, 1920.

PRESENT: Hon. Forest Stapp, Judge.

This day came, R. G. Woods and two hundred and thirty two other Citizens and legally qualified voters of Garrard County, Kentucky, who are free holders of the County, and petitioned the Court to make an order on his order book directing the Officers of the Election in all voting precincts in the County, to open a poll on TUESDAY MARCH 30, 1920, to take sense of the legal voters of said County upon the question "Are you in favor of issuing $192,000.00 in Bonds for the purpose of building roads and bridges."

Said Bonds to bear interest not to exceed five per cent per annum with coupons attached, payable semi-annually. Said Bonds to be in denominations of not less than One Hundred Dollars or more than One Thousand Dollars to run not less than five nor more than twenty-one years, and to be redeemed within that time at the pleasure of the Garrard County Fiscal Court and to be sold at not less par value and accrued interest.

Wherefore it is ordered by the Court, that the regular officers of the election, in all the voting precincts in the county will open a poll on Tuesday March 30, 1920, to take the sense of the legal voters in said County upon the question "Are you in favor of issuing $192,000.00 in Bonds for the purpose of building roads and bridges."

The sheriff of said County is directed to advertise said election and the object thereof, for at least 30 days next before the day thereof, in some newspaper having the largest circulation in the County and also by printed hand bills posted up at not less than four public places in each voting precinct in the County and at the Court House Door.

The County Clerk is directed to have printed, upon the Ballot, the question, "Are you in favor of issuing $192,000.00 in Bonds for the purpose of building roads and bridges," and to leave two places upon the right of said question: One for votes favoring the issue, to be designated by the word "Yes" and one for votes opposing the issue to be designated by the word "No", and said Ballot to be printed as provided for in the General Election Laws, Section 1459 Kentucky Statutes.

Said Election shall in all respects, be held in accordance with the general Election Laws of the state.

It is further provided that all the money raised by the sale of the said bonds shall be used solely and alone for the building, construction, or re-construction of roads of asphaltum, concrete, brick, stone block, macadam, gravel or other processes of equal merit.

FOREST STAPP, Judge of Garrard County Court.
This notice is given in pursuance to above order of the Garrard County Court. This 29th day of January 1920.

A. K. WALKER, Sheriff of Garrard County.

PASTORS URGED To Attend Conference.

Dr. E. L. Powell, of Louisville, writes Ministers Asking their Presence at State Meeting in Louisville.

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 10.—Dr. E. L. Powell, pastor of the First Christian Church at Louisville, and one of the best known ministers of the Disciples of Christ, has written a letter to the ministers of the denomination in Kentucky, urging them to attend the State Conference in the First Church March 17, 18 and 19 and obtain first hand knowledge of the Inter-Church World Movement, under whose auspices the conference is called.

"I know of no people," says Dr. Powell, in his letter, "who can more conscientiously and enthusiastically enter into this movement than the Disciples of Christ. Critic or friend, come to this high place of vision and outlook on the great interests of the Kingdom."

Dr. Powell states that transportation expenses of all ministers who attend the conference will be paid and that the only expense to which they will be while in the city is for their board and room.

Essay On Men.

A little girl wrote the following composition on men: "Men are what women marry. They drink and smoke and swear but don't go to church. Perhaps if they wore bonnets, they would. They are more logical than woman and also more zoological. Both men and women sprung from monkeys, but the women sprung farther than the men."

Seed Sold Out.

Big headlines on the front page of last week's Farmers Home Journal announce the fact that Messrs B. L. Kelley and Sons of this county have sold out their supply of tobacco seed. This proves two things, the high quality of the seed and that "it pays to advertise." Messrs Kelley have established an enviable reputation for their tobacco seed, and are flooded every year with hundreds of orders in excess of their supply, notwithstanding their output is materially increased every year.

RAISE HOGS AT LESS COST.

You can easily do this by giving them a few doses of B. A. THOMAS' HOG POWDER every week. It causes your hogs to digest and assimilate all the food that is fed them. It is a tonic and conditioner, thereby causing your hogs to fatten in shorter time and on less feed. We sell it.

NEWCASTLE, Ind.,—Stock salesmen in large numbers have recently come to this part of Indiana, selling securities in oil marketing enterprises, which aim at the wholesale establishment of gasoline service stations. The salesmen have recently been in this city. Cambridge City, Richmond and other eastern Indiana cities and in some places have succeeded in interesting considerable money in the venture.

The plan is to erect a service station after selling stock. The stockholders are to receive "operation certificates," which provide that at the end of each month the sum of 1 cent on each gallon of gasoline sold will be refunded to the holders of these certificates.

"Not Familiar With Business"
The National Petroleum News, an oil paper published at Cleveland, O., recently published an article concerning similar promotion companies, says "these enterprises as yet are apparently almost entirely on a stock sales basis. They are being directed in every case by men who are not at all familiar with any phase of the oil business."

The plan, according to the oil paper, originated in Iowa and has spread exceedingly fast to other states. As far as is known, this part of the state is the first to be visited by the promoters. The Petroleum News says:

"Their method of procedure is to throw a gang of salesmen into the small towns and sell to the farmers and merchants what they call 'operating certificates,' in most cases for $250 apiece. In return, the company agrees to establish in those towns service stations and to deposit in a local bank 1 cent a gallon for all gasoline sales and 5 per cent of the gross sales of oils, greases and what automobile accessories are carried. 'Certificate holders are to be paid back monthly from this sum. The company agrees to pay back in this manner $500 for each $250 secured; but is sets no time limit within which such payments must be made in full. It could be done in ten years, or fifty years, or 100 years, and still the company would live up to its contract."

The paper points out that in Le Claire, Ia., a service station of this character was established, the company selling twenty-three operating certificates, thus raising the sum of $6,750 to operate the station. No sum is specified as to the amount of money that will be invested in erecting the station, and it is pointed out that most of the money could readily go back to the stock salesmen. The Le Claire station was the first erected by one of these companies, it is said, and the best weeks business was 250 gallons of gasoline. According to the oil paper, one of the stockholders received $2.01 on his investment for five months.

The Petroleum News says that the stations must buy their products from competing companies, because they own no oil lands or leases, and, in selling the products, they must meet competition and at the same time pay the stockholders 1 cent a gallon on the gasoline.—Reprint from the Evansville Ind. Courier, Wednesday, Feb. 11, 1920.

Shortage of School Teachers.

The report of the United States Bureau of Education on the shortage of school teachers gives the detailed facts of a serious condition in this country, whose existence has been recognized for some time.

According to the Bureau report, 18,279 schools closed last year because of lack of teachers and 41,900 were taught by teachers characterized as "below standard, but taken temporarily on emergency."

The explanation for this condition is largely found in another paragraph of the report which states that the average salary paid elementary teachers was $606, and $1,031 for high school teachers. With such salaries we cannot expect to command the necessary number of teachers to fill the demands, and many of those in the profession are worth as teaching must at least be made as attractive financially as the commonest forms of day labor, and until it is we may expect to see our schools closed in large numbers, and others doing work which is mediocre.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of our dearly beloved daughter, Mrs. Emma Lee Scott Blanks, who departed this life, March 13th, 1918. Just two sad years have passed, Since we saw our dear daughter last, But her memory is as dear to-day, As in the hour she passed away, Once again we hope to meet her, When the day of life is fled, Then in Heaven, we hope to greet her, Where no farewell tear is shed.
